HISTORY OF THE NEW ENGLAND CONSERVATORY

The New England Conservatory of Music, the oldest independent school of music in this country, was founded in Boston by Eben Tourjée on February 18, 1867, and incorporated in 1870. It first occupied studios in Boston Music Hall, the center of the orchestral activity in the city.

Under Dr. Tourjée's direction the school prospered and enlarged its activity and the numbers of its student body, until in 1882 advantage was taken of the opportunity to acquire the large St. James Hotel in Franklin Square, which would provide not only more ample teaching space, but also a home for the young women who were coming to the Conservatory in large numbers for musical study.

After the death of Dr. Tourjée in 1890, Carl Faelten assumed the Directorship, who in turn was succeeded in 1897 by George W. Chadwick. Again the broadening of the musical curriculum demanded new resources of physical plant, which were realized by the construction of the present building on Huntington Avenue and Gainsboro Street, especially designed to meet every need of the school. The Conservatory took possession of this building in September, 1902.

Upon the resignation of Director Chadwick at the end of the year 1930, he was succeeded by Wallace Goodrich who had occupied the office of Dean of the Faculty since its establishment in 1907, Frederick S. Converse becoming the new Dean of the Faculty. Mr. Goodrich retired in 1942, and was succeeded by Quincy Porter, who had been Dean of the Faculty since 1938. Mr. Porter resigned in June 1946, and Harrison Keller was appointed Director in 1947.

In 1925 the Conservatory was granted authority to confer the Bachelor's Degree in Music, and eight years later also the degree, Master of Music. The demands of a collegiate curriculum led in 1928 to the construction of a substantial addition to the Conservatory building. The Conservatory now possesses the advantage of a single building containing three halls, including Jordan, George W. Brown and Recital Hall; and a modern cafeteria.

The Conservatory is situated in the heart of the cultural center of Boston, one block from Symphony Hall — the home of the Boston Symphony Orchestra — and a short distance from the Boston Opera House and the Boston Public Library.

The Conservatory is a charter member of the National Association of Schools of Music and a member of the New England Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools.

A more detailed and illustrated description of the Conservatory building and facilities will be sent upon application addressed to the Conservatory.

PREPARATORY COURSES IN APPLIED MUSICPIANOFORTE

The pianoforte course is divided into ten grades. A candidate for admission to the Diploma Course must have completed Grade 5, or its equivalent. A candidate for admission to the Degree Course must have completed Grade 6, or its equivalent. The choice of works to be studied is left to the discretion of the instructor, who is at liberty to substitute material of equal worth and degree of difficulty.

Pianoforte 1

N. E. C. Method, Book 1; Diller-Quaile, First Solo Book; John Thompson, Grade 1; Concord Piano Book; Oxford Piano Course, Grade 1; First Book of Tunes to Play, Henry Goodrich.

PREPARATORY STUDENTS

The Conservatory makes provision for students from eight years old through high school age to obtain careful instruction in any instrument, and, provided the student is ready, in voice.

All students of the Conservatory who are qualified, whether special or full course students, are welcome to membership in the Conservatory Orchestra, the Orchestral Class and the Conservatory Chorus; to appear in student recitals and to profit by the many additional advantages resulting from the association of many students and teachers in the varied branches of the musical art. The privilege of making excellent recordings at a very low charge, which is given to all students registered at the Conservatory, has proven of great value to many. Students working for credit are advised to make a phonograph recording twice a year, which makes a valuable record of their progress.

PRELIMINARY COURSE

Upon the recommendation of the Examining Board, a Preliminary Course, consisting of intensive drill in the fundamentals of music as well as a careful technical training in their major instrument, will be given to students who wish to enter the courses leading to a Diploma or Bachelor of Music Degree but who lack the required preparation in either applied music or theoretical subjects.

DIPLOMA COURSES

For the student wishing to devote the greater part of his time and effort to instrumental or vocal study, the Diploma courses provide the most essential supplementary musical studies, with a minimum of the academic, to furnish the preparation necessary for his particular career. Qualified students may complete one of these courses in three years.

A solid grounding is provided in musical theory, but this training is constantly linked with its application to the practical side of music. Intensive work in ear-training, rhythm, and sight-singing is given in the solfege classes, which parallels the work in harmony during the first two years, so that the student may be enabled to hear what he writes, and to develop a practical, not merely a theoretical sense of rhythm and musical phrasing.

The courses in theoretical subjects lead to the detailed study of the procedures used in the great musical literature: the chorales and fugues of Bach, the sonatas of Beethoven. The laws of acoustics, principles of orchestration, and other matters important to the musician are also dealt with. The course in the history of music offers a survey of the entire field of music, generously illustrated by recordings.

Special supplementary work is planned according to the major field. For pianists there are classes in sight-playing, ensemble-playing and accompaniment. In the pianoforte class a large repertoire of the literature is presented and discussed from the particular standpoint of the student-pianist. For organists there are special courses in choir-training which include the study of the history of church music. The class in keyboard harmony, the organ class in which students meet together to discuss general problems and to seek further into the literature of the instrument, and the course in choral conducting are all of practical value in training for future positions. For singers there are language courses especially adapted to their needs. Students may avail themselves of the course in operatic singing and acting. Performers on orchestral instruments are provided with an intensive course of training in orchestral and chamber music performance, which makes an important supplement to their solo instrumental work. For string players there are classes in string quartet and ensemble-playing with pianoforte which give extensive familiarity with the chamber music repertoire. For woodwind instrument players there is extensive training in chamber music, with and without pianoforte; and for the brass instruments, training in small groups in the brass ensemble class. All orchestral players become acquainted with a large section of the literature through the orchestral reading class, and are given opportunity to perform many works, both classic and modern, in the Conservatory Orchestra.

For all Diploma students there are English courses, dealing with the use of the language both in writing and in speaking, and with its literature, and also the fine arts lectures. These studies, though academic, are so taught that they shed light on the art of music by calling attention to the constructive principles of other media.

Students majoring in instrumental study or in voice are given many opportunities to perform in the weekly recitals, and those qualified may be accompanied by the Conservatory Orchestra in concertos and arias.

ADVANCED CERTIFICATE

Candidates who have been accepted for this course will be assigned by the Director to a special program leading to an Advanced Certificate. Completion of this Course will require a minimum of one year.

ARTIST'S DIPLOMA

This course is offered only to students of exceptional ability in Piano, Voice, Violin, Violoncello and Flute, who possess the artistic and personal qualifications necessary for a successful public career.

BACHELOR'S DEGREE

The demand for degrees in music is increasing each year. Many positions for teachers in schools and colleges are open only to those who possess one.

At the Conservatory the course leading to the Bachelor's degree may be completed in four years by students who are qualified by their preparation in the fundamentals of music and in their major instrument or field. Those wishing to enter the courses leading to a diploma or the Bachelor's degree, but who lack the required preparation, upon recommendation of the examining board may pursue a Preliminary Course, consisting of intensive drill in the fundamentals of music as well as careful training in their major instrument.

The Conservatory's four-year courses leading to the Bachelor's degree meet the requirements of the National Association of Schools of Music, of which the Conservatory is a charter member.

In each of the instrumental courses, and in voice, more advanced theoretical work is demanded than in the Diploma Course. Music Form and Contemporary Music are advanced courses, including the study of both classic and present day music from many angles. History of Music 2 makes a study of certain important periods with more thoroughness than is possible in the first course.

The academic work is considerably in advance of that required of Diploma students, including more extended courses in Fine Arts, Humanities, and World Literature, as well as courses in European and American History and Government, Natural Science, Psychology for Teachers, Sociology, etc. The complete Academic Department is contained within the Conservatory.

The demands in applied music are also considerably in advance of those of the Diploma courses. Voice students are offered a comprehensive course in operatic singing and acting. Pianoforte and string majors especially qualified may elect to major in ensemble-playing.

A special course is planned for Composition majors. Most of the major work is done in private lessons, since this is felt to be the only way in which true individuality may be developed in each student.

The Music Education course provides a well-rounded preparation for the exacting and varied demands made on teachers and supervisors. Classes in conducting, the study by actual manipulation of instruments in each of three groups (strings, woodwind, and brass) in the Instrumental Classes, a study of the management of chorus, band and orchestra — all phases of musical experience necessary to teach the various branches of music in public grade or high school — are included in this course. The actual teaching experience in public schools in the vicinity of Boston further prepares the student to be ready on graduation for the duties of a school position. In addition to the many courses on musical subjects and the applied music, there are the 36 semester hours of academic work (English, 12; History, Government, Sociology, 12; Natural Science, 6; Fine Arts, 6); and the 26 hours of professional subjects (Principles and Problems of Education 6; Music in Elementary and Secondary Education, 8; Psychology, 6; Practice Teaching, 6) required by many state boards.

MASTER'S DEGREE

Admission to this course will be granted to students who hold a Bachelor of Music degree from a college or music school of recognized standing, who satisfy the entrance requirements as stated herein, and who present evidence of capacity for successful advanced study.

Students admitted to the graduate course may concentrate in Applied Music, Applied Music Pedagogy, Composition, Historical Research, Music Education, or Music Theory. In addition to their work in the major field, they will be required to pursue approved courses bearing a total credit of at least sixteen units.

SPECIAL STUDENTS

The Conservatory affords to all types of students opportunity to take advantage of any of the many branches of musical instruction, by pursuing one or more of the subjects offered. Students with professional ambitions may wish to concentrate in a particular field, without necessarily following a complete course leading to a diploma or degree. Others who are already engaged in a professional career may wish to obtain new ideas which will strengthen their abilities or musicianship. Amateurs who derive pleasure from music as an avocation may increase their capacity as performers, and become more widely acquainted with the literature they most enjoy. Beginners of all ages may obtain the type of instruction which will help them to achieve their ambitions, in whatever direction they may lie, whether in performance, arranging or composition, or by so increasing their knowledge of music as to obtain more pleasure therefrom as listeners. The large faculty of the Conservatory provides a wide variety of instruction which will fit all demands. Special students are not subject to the scholastic requirements for entrance prescribed for full-course pupils. Members of the administrative staff are always glad to furnish advice to all special students, and to inform them of the various courses which may be of interest and value to them. All special students are eligible to all the general advantages and privileges of the Conservatory.

Special students may arrange through the Registrar to take as many or as few private lessons in any subject as they may desire. However, registration for less than a semester of class instruction will not be permitted.

EVENING INSTRUCTION

Evening instruction will be available during the school year. Students may register for private lessons and when justified, classes may be organized.

BERKSHIRE MUSIC CENTER — SPECIAL CREDITS

Candidates for the Master's degree, Artist's diploma, or students of advanced ability, who have been accepted by the New England Conservatory of Music for study during the summer, may undertake private lessons in applied music with members of the Conservatory faculty who also teach at the Berkshire Music Center at Tanglewood. Appropriate credits will be given by the Conservatory to students who are qualified and registered at the Dean's office of the Conservatory prior to the opening of the Berkshire Music Center.

Such candidates, who meet the required qualifications of the Berkshire Music Center, may register for additional courses offered there.

VETERANS

The New England Conservatory of Music is approved by the Veterans Administration and will accept returning veterans for education and training under the G. I. Bill of Rights.

Certain credits will be allowed for musical experience obtained in the armed services and for any courses a veteran may have taken at the U. S. A. F. I.

In the case of veterans who did not complete four years of high school, the New England Conservatory of Music will arrange whenever possible to have the student make up incomplete high school credits along with his regular course work.

All inquiries should be directed to the Veterans Counselor, Malcolm H. Holmes.

OUTLINES OF COURSES

The courses of study offered by the New England Conservatory of Music are listed on the following pages.

The supplementary subjects (that is, all but the major) are described in the alphabetically arranged section under the heading 'Description of Subjects'.

Subjects with the same title which are numbered progressively must be taken in the order named. For example, Harmony 2 is a prerequisite of Harmony 3. Other prerequisites are stated under the 'Description of Subjects'. Figures in the right hand column indicate credit hours.

An a following the number of semester hours credit indicates that the class meets during the first semester; a b indicates second semester. When no letter is added, the class meets through both semesters.

The courses of study are carefully planned to give a well-rounded education in the student's chosen field. Where the particular abilities of the student justify, certain substitutions may be made with the permission of the Director.

DESCRIPTION OF SUBJECTS

Unless otherwise indicated, all classes meet throughout both semesters of the academic year.

American History and Government

A study of relationships between European and American History during the periods of settlement and expansion; development of democratic thought and institutions, including the history and principles of the Constitution; selected Supreme Court cases; social and cultural development, and adjustment to modern economic and political life; International Policy: the League of Nations, United Nations, World Court, and Inter-American Conferences; maps, documents, reports.

Mr. Perry

3 hours weekly, 2nd semester

Band

The New England Conservatory Band is organized for the purpose of study and performance of both the original and transcribed literature. It is under the guidance of an experienced director, and is provided as a training in organization and leadership for students desiring to enter this field.

Mr. Moleux

2 hours weekly

Bibliography and Research

Training in use of library. Technique of research. Bibliography and methods of modern scholarship. Required of students writing a thesis.

Brass Class (See Instrumental Class)

Brass Ensemble

A study of the performance of representative passages for brass instruments in the literature of the orchestra. Exactitude of intonation, rhythmic precision, proper methods of attack considering the role that the player is performing at a particular point in the piece, are given stress. The group covers, in the course of two years, a large section of the literature, both classic and modern. Each performer has his turn in the various positions in the group, whether 1st, 2nd, 3rd or 4th. The class is coordinated with the Orchestra Reading class in such a way that works that are to be played complete are previously studied in the Brass Ensemble class. Works which are being prepared for public performance by the Conservatory Orchestra are also given particular preparation.

Mr. Coppez

1 hour weekly

Carillon-playing

A standard carillon keyboard provides for instruction and practice.

Mr. Faxon

Choir Ensemble

The study and singing of complete services for various types of churches. Latin Masses, Offices and Benediction. Anglican Choral Services. Motets and anthems for Protestant church worship.

Mr. Titcomb

1 hour weekly

Choir Training

Choir organization and training under differing conditions in both liturgical and non-liturgical churches. Choir-room technique. Choral conducting and methods of rehearsing. Choir repertoire and program building.

Mr. Titcomb

2 hours weekly

Choral Conducting (Advanced)

A specialized study of choral conducting with particular emphasis on advanced beat technique, rehearsal problems and technique, virtuoso choral repertoire, both sacred and secular, for radio chorus, madrigal group, advanced college and community choruses. Students in this course will have the opportunity of conducting practice in the vocal Solfege III ensemble as well as the chorus. Participation in the chorus is required.

Prerequisite: Choral Conducting II or its equivalent, proficiency to be determined by the instructor.

Mrs. deVaron

2 hours weekly

Choral Practice

A course in choral technique and interpretation and an exploration of choral literature of various periods and styles. Principles of choral training and conducting are exemplified. Students of Choral Conducting are given an opportunity for practical experience. The repertoire is varied from year to year so that the course covers a considerable area during a given student's attendance.

Mrs. deVaron

4 hours weekly

ChorusThe Conservatory Chorus

The rehearsals of the New England Conservatory Chorus give detailed attention to the fundamental principles of the Choral

Art and discipline, including accuracy of reading, clarity of diction, sensitivity to the ensemble, and elasticity of expression.

In a number of concerts throughout the year, the Chorus with soloists chosen from the Conservatory, performs some of the great church music, secular choruses and part songs extending from Medieval to Modern times.

The music is performed a-cappella, sometimes with piano, organ, or orchestral accompaniment.

Mrs. de Varon

4 hours weekly

Composition

Aside from the classes described below, all work in composition is carried on in private lessons, so that the instruction may be adapted to the individual problems of each student. A study of advanced instrumentation is considered an intrinsic part of advanced creative work. Mr. McKinley, Mr. Cooke, Mr. Procter.

Composition Workshop

This will consist of six sessions, beginning in November and extending through April, for critical and constructive discussion of original works by members of the class. Available to all sophomore, junior and senior students in Composition as well as to graduate or advanced composition students, with the approval of the Director.

Conducting

1. Conducting and Score Reading 1, Basic Technique.

The fundamentals of conducting technique both with and without the baton. Elementary score reading.

Mrs. Whitney

1 hour weekly

2. Conducting and Score Reading 2.

Extension of conducting technique and study of specialized aspects applicable to handling the chorus; score study, including reading from open score with all clefs, conductor's analysis and problems of mastery; development of repertoire, various styles; procedures for developing excellence in choral technique and interpretation; problems of rehearsal and performance. Regular attendance at Choral Practice is required of all students in the course. Well-prepared students are given opportunity to accompany and conduct.

Mrs. deVaron

2 hours weekly

Conducting, only, 1 hour weekly

3. Conducting and Score Reading 3.

The technique of orchestral conducting in all its aspects, with particular emphasis on problems connected with the organization and training of the amateur orchestra in general and the school orchestra in particular. Score reading and preparation; program and rehearsal planning; interpretation; repertoire. Each student will obtain practical experience through conducting and observing at one 2-hour rehearsal of the training orchestra.

Mr. Williams

2 hours weekly

Conducting only, 1 hour weekly

Conference Courses

Individual conference privileges with instructors in the academic and music education departments may be arranged. These conferences are restricted to students concentrating in research. Candidates for the Master's Degree are required to carry conference courses in the fields of their theses. (See also Bibliography)

Conservatory Chorus (See Chorus)Conservatory Orchestra (See Orchestra)*Contemporary Music

A study of recent tendencies in music, and their relationship to the music of the past. This course will deal not only with harmonic, but also with some of the melodic, rhythmic, and structural features of twentieth century music, European and American.

Mr. Cooke

2 hours weekly

Counterpoint

1. (Pre-requisite: Harmony 1) The first semester's work is largely concerned with "harmonic counterpoint," that is, the evolution of melodic lines from a preconceived harmonic pattern. There is an extensive study of the Bach figured chorale, followed by the more elaborate treatment in the organ chorale preludes. In the second semester the work is extended to cover the style of the Viennese classical masters, with writing for string trio and quartet as well as other small instrumental combinations.
2. First semester: A study of contrapuntal devices, especially as applied to instrumental music; imitation of all kinds, including canon, invertible counterpoint; the writing of two and three-part inventions.

Second semester: Fugue writing. Subject, answer and counter-subject; construction of episodes; stretto; the plan of a fugue as a whole; analysis and writing of fugues in two, three and four voices.

3. The aims of this course are twofold, and both are pursued concurrently; first, an inquiry into the fundamental nature of counterpoint, both apart from and along with its manifestations in various periods, and second, a study of the styles of the 16th, 18th, and 20th Centuries.

Mr. Cooke, Mrs. Lautner, Mrs. Mason, Mr. McKinley, Mr. Procter, Mr. Waldbauer, Mr. Williams. 2 hours weekly

Drama 1 (for Music Education majors)

A special course designed for music education majors but available to voice majors. Its purpose is to prepare students to handle the problems inherent in the production of operettas and pageants in the public schools. Attention will also be given to program building as it applies to all types of public performances.

Mrs. Barnett

Drama 2

A course in the techniques of acting, designed to give confidence and platform familiarity to students who plan to concentrate on performance of music in public. Acting scenes from plays, laboratory productions, and study of other important theater techniques, such as make-up, costumes, and lighting, will be included.

Mrs. Barnett

1 hour weekly, 1 semester

English Laboratory

Required for those whose scores on the Cooperative Achievement Tests indicate the need for further study of the fundamentals of English composition. This course may, with the permission of the instructor, be taken concurrently with Humanities.

Ensemble (Advanced)

A course available to graduate or advanced students in piano-forte and stringed instruments for the study and performance of examples chosen from the important chamber music literature. Sonatas, trios, quartets, and quintets representing various periods and styles will be included in this course.

Mr. Keller

2 hours weekly

Ensemble-Playing

The study of the classic and the modern repertoire of chamber music for pianoforte and stringed or woodwind instruments, including sonatas and trios, quartets, and works for larger combinations, is a refining and educating influence of inestimable value. Each class comprises six pianoforte students and students of stringed and woodwind instruments.

Mr. Cooke; Mr. Barnett

1 hour weekly

European History

A study of European History by periods: the cultural and political development of Greece; the Roman Empire and Rise of Christianity; economic, social and intellectual development of the Middle Ages and Renaissance; the Age of the Reformation and Counter-Reformation; development of Modern Europe during the Seventeenth and Eighteenth Centuries; national and economic trends of the Nineteenth Century; a survey of political theories and institutions of each period.

Mr. Perry

3 hours weekly. 1st semester

Fine Arts 1

This course will concentrate on the most important periods of art creation. Greek architecture and sculpture will be discussed as a base of all creative art of the modern world and will be used to demonstrate the "cycle of development" that can be found in all periods. Roman and Medieval architecture will introduce more detailed studies of sculpture and painting during the Middle Ages and the Renaissance. Examples of European and American art of the 18th and 19th centuries will demonstrate the close relationship between Music and Fine Arts. Final conclusions will show the continuity of cultural development in cycles, as shown during the different phases.

Form and Acoustics

Prerequisite: Harmony 1.

This course summarizes the knowledge necessary to every teacher and professional musician. It enables the student to analyze intelligently the form of the music which he plays and teaches, and provides the necessary foundation in whatever field he may afterwards enter, whether of teaching or of artistic performance. It is also indispensable to those who intend to study composition. Instrumentation and acoustics. Analysis of the shorter forms. Description and illustration of orchestral instruments. The sonata form and the analysis of Beethoven's pianoforte sonatas and of Bach's Well-Tempered Clavichord.

History of Music 1

This course will begin with an inquiry into the origins and nature of music, dealing with the music of primitive tribes and Eastern peoples and establishing the connection between Greek and Hebrew music and early Christian chant. This will be followed by a study of the pioneers of the modern sonata and symphony, and the survey will be traced to the present day.

Enough emphasis will be placed upon the early history of opera to make clear the position of Gluck and Mozart. Outside reading on the omitted portions of history will be recommended. In addition to the weekly lectures, there will be supervised listening periods for small groups.

Mr. W. S. Smith 2 hours weekly (one general lecture,

Orchestra

The Conservatory Orchestra

The New England Conservatory Symphony Orchestra gives an average of six to eight concerts each year, in which members of the Faculty and advanced students of pianoforte, violin, voice, and organ, appear as soloists.

The programs prepared for concert performance include a large number of overtures, symphonies, and concertos, both classical and modern. Recordings are made of works as they are being played by the orchestra in concert or rehearsal, and are of invaluable benefit to the members as they later have opportunity to hear these recordings.

Solfège

1. Prerequisite: Preparatory course or passing of examination in music fundamentals. A course designed to include the singing and aurilization of rhythmic, intervallic, melodic, and simple chordal and contrapuntal materials. Their notation on the staff, using treble and bass clefs. Special emphasis is placed upon intonation and the position of these materials in the major and minor tonalities. Melodic modulation to closely related keys in both sight-singing and dictation.
2. A continuation of first year ear-training and sight-singing. Increasing difficulty of materials and the use of additional clefs. Remote modulation. The aurilization of chords of the seventh and their inversions. Advanced harmonic, melodic, and contrapuntal dictation.
3. A continuation of Solfège 2 in which the results of the student's work during his first and second year are applied directly to his major field. Particular emphasis is placed upon the analysis and solution of contemporary tonal and rhythmic problems.

CONSERVATORY DIPLOMA COURSES

Section 1

Entrance Requirements

- a. Satisfactory completion of a standard four-year high school course or its equivalent is necessary for admission to the first year of a Diploma Course. A standard four-year high school course is considered to be one which comprises not less than fifteen units, of which at least eleven should show a satisfactory division among the following subjects:

English	Latin or modern foreign languages
Mathematics	History or Science

- b. An official transcript of record must be filed in the office of the Dean upon entrance to the Conservatory.
- c. The student must have reached a required degree of advancement in his major field or subject. Admission to the course will be determined by examination, which will take place during the week of registration. Application for this examination should be made to the Dean by September 1st.

Note: The standard of achievement required for entrance to the Diploma Courses, with an instrumental or voice major, is well established. It requires that the student show evidence of ability to accomplish the required work in all subjects during the three years of the course. The natural talents or aptitudes of the student are taken into consideration in reaching a decision. Students who fail to pass this examination may become special students and may prepare for entrance to the Diploma Course at a later date, pursuing in the meantime, if they so desire, some of the required supplementary subjects for which they are qualified.

- d. Each student is required to take a test in fundamentals of music. This test covers general elementary knowledge of scales, key signatures, notation, names of intervals, meter, and general rudimentary terminology. In addition to this, it examines the candidate's ability to recognize two-note intervals and short melodic patterns within the range of an octave.
- e. Record books in which the complete applied music repertoire must be posted are required of all students. This book, signed by the teacher in the major subject, must be presented at each promotional examination.

Section 2Advanced Standing

- a. It is possible to obtain advanced standing in academic subjects, provided the work has been satisfactorily completed in approved institutions of collegiate rank.

Note: In Italian, French, and German, full credit can be given to voice students only when satisfactory evidence is given of ability to sing with good diction in the respective language, in addition to the collegiate credit offered.

- b. Advanced standing in technical musical subjects may be obtained by examination only. These examinations will be given at the beginning of the academic year. Students wishing to take these examinations must apply to the Dean before the opening of registration in September, supplying all information requested on the application blank provided by the Conservatory.
- c. Once a student is admitted to a course he is no longer privileged to obtain additional advanced standing, by examination or otherwise, for subjects included in the course, unless he obtains written permission from the Director.

Note: Exception to this rule is made in the case of a student who has transferred to an approved institution of collegiate rank, and who wishes to return to the New England Conservatory.

- d. Courses taken in high school may be offered only toward entrance requirements, and will not be accepted for credit in courses leading to a diploma.

Section 3Requirements for Junior, Senior and Final Examinations

- a. A student will be admitted to these examinations only upon the recommendation of the instructor in his major subject.
- b. Record books fully posted to date, and signed by the instructor must be presented to the Director at each examination.
- c. In addition to all other requirements, candidates may be examined in solfege and sight-playing at each of these examinations.
- d. All candidates for admission to the Junior or Senior Class, and all students who have already been admitted to either class by examination, must report in person at the office of the Dean at the beginning of the school year, and in no case later than six days after the beginning of the first semester.

Section 4Requirements for Admission to the Junior Year

- a. Completion, with not more than one failure, of the supplementary subjects listed for the first year.
- b. Passing of the Sophomore examinations and a demonstrative examination in the major.

Section 5Requirements for Admission to the Senior Year

- a. Completion, with not more than one failure, of the supplementary subjects listed for the first and second years.
- b. Passing of the Senior examinations and a demonstrative examination in the major.
- c. Candidates with instrumental or voice majors must have studied at least one-half of the repertoire required for graduation. Of this repertoire, they must be prepared to perform six works, preferably no two by the same composer, not offered at the Junior examination. A creditable performance of any of these works, either at a public concert of advanced students, in a student's recital, or in ensemble, will count toward this requirement.

Section 6Requirements for Graduation

- a. Completion of all course requirements.
- b. Passing of the final examinations and a demonstrative examination in the major.
- c. Candidates in Applied Music must have studied their major during the entire period of their course.
- d. Candidates with instrumental or voice majors must have studied the entire prescribed repertoire, from which they must be prepared to perform six pieces, preferably no two by the same composer, not offered at the Senior examination. A creditable performance of any of these works, either at a public concert of advanced students, in a student's recital or in ensemble, will count toward this requirement.
- e. Special Requirements for Violin and other Orchestral Majors.
 - 1. All advanced students may be required to play in the Conservatory Orchestra or the Orchestral Class.
 - 2. Advanced violin, viola, and violoncello students may be required to attend Ensemble class for one or more years in addition to credit requirements.

3. Wind instrument players may be required to attend the Woodwind or Brass Ensemble Class one or more years in addition to the requirement for credit.
- f. It is advisable that all students working for instrumental or vocal credit toward a Diploma make a phonograph recording twice a year. These are kept on file as long as the student is attending the Conservatory.
- g. Substitutions for subjects in the Outlines of Courses may be made only with the permission of the Director.

ADVANCED CERTIFICATE

Requirements for Entrance

Section 7

This course will be available to those who have received the New England Conservatory of Music Diploma, or its equivalent. Upon the recommendation of the student's instructor in his major field, a special audition will be given by an examining panel whose approval will admit the candidate to the course.

Requirements for Graduation

A final examination will be given by a panel composed of the principal instructors in the candidate's major field. The passing of a final examination will entitle the candidate to the Advanced Certificate.

ARTIST'S DIPLOMA

Section 8

Requirements for Admission

- a. Possession of a Bachelor of Music Degree or its equivalent.
- b. Passing a successful demonstrative examination before the Faculty Council.

Section 9

Requirements for Artist's Diploma

- a. Two years intensive study in major instrument.
- b. Emphasis on preparing an advanced repertoire for public performance.
- c. A complete public recital to be given in each academic year, as well as such appearances with orchestra as may be recommended. Typewritten program to be submitted to the Director, for approval, at least three weeks prior to recital date.
- d. A final demonstrative examination to be given by the Faculty Council.

BACHELOR OF MUSIC

Section 11

Requirements for Entrance

- a. Graduation from an accredited high school or its equivalent is required for admission to degree courses, with a creditable record of scholarship. High school graduation is assumed to imply fifteen units of high school work, of which three must be in English, two in foreign languages, one in mathematics (though two are recommended), one in science or history, and eight in elective subjects. Of these eight elective units, five must be chosen from academic subjects. The remaining three units may be in music or other free electives. Any deficiency in high school credits must be made up during the first year of the degree course.

- b. Presentation of an official transcript of record, together with an application for admission to the Degree Course. (Application forms are obtainable at the office of the Dean.) These papers must be presented at the office of the Dean by September 1st.
- c. Except in Composition, Music Education and Organ Courses, the completion of the equivalent of the first year in the Conservatory Diploma Course in the major instrument.

Note: The course leading to the degree Bachelor of Music is designed to provide, in addition to the various technical and academic subjects prescribed, two years of intensive study in residence in the major subject in advance of the requirements for the Diploma. Requirements in the major subject for admission to the Freshman year of the Degree Course are approximately the same as those for the Junior examination of the Diploma Course the last two years of which, as far as advancement in the major is concerned, are practically parallel with the first two years of the Degree Course.

- d. Students who wish to major in Composition must present proof of particular aptitude in this field, and must have accomplished the equivalent of Solfege 1.
- e. Music Education majors must show an acquaintance with at least two instruments, one of them being pianoforte, constituting the equivalent of at least one year's study of each. A deficiency in this requirement must be made up by work in applied music in addition to that required in the outline of the course.
- f. Entrance to the organ course pre-supposes some previous organ training and study. Entrance will be by audition, and elementary standard pedal and manual co-ordination will be expected. In case of a beginner lacking sufficient background, a preparatory year will be required. The minimum keyboard requirement should approximate Pianoforte, Grade 4, as stated in the catalogue.
- g. Passing of a demonstrative examination before the Faculty Council, which takes place at the beginning of the academic year.
- h. Record books in which the complete applied music repertoire must be posted are required of all students. This book, signed by the teacher in the major subject, must be presented at each promotional examination.

Section 12Regulations for Advanced Standing

- a. Advanced standing will be granted only if approved by the Faculty Council.
- b. Courses taken in high school may be offered only toward entrance requirements, and will not be accepted for credit in courses leading to a degree.
- c. Credit will be given for academic subjects prescribed in the course a student intends to pursue and for Music History 1 and 2, provided their satisfactory completion in an accredited institution of collegiate rank may be proven by certificate.
- d. Advanced standing will be granted in all subjects, technical or academic, completed at the New England Conservatory during the past five years, up to the number of semester hours credit obtained, whether by special students or by Diploma students.
- e. Advanced standing is given tentatively, and if the preparation in the subject for which advanced standing has been given subsequently proves inadequate, the student will be required to take additional work to make up this deficiency.
- f. Students must complete the last 30 points leading to a degree, at the New England Conservatory.

Section 13Requirements for Admission to the Sophomore, Junior and Senior Years

- a. Completion of the course requirements of the previous year or years, with not more than one failure.
- b. Passing of a demonstrative examination before the Faculty Council, taking place at the end of each of the first three years of the course. The Council's decision as to the placement of each student in the course is based not only on the result of the foregoing examinations, but also on the student's record.
- c. Candidates may, at the end of the Sophomore year, be admitted to a major in Music Theory upon the recommendation of the Faculty Council. They must, however, have demonstrated superior ability in this field.

Section 14Requirements for Graduation

- a. Completion of all course requirements.
- b. Recommendation of the Faculty Council as a result of the final examination conducted by the Council.
- c. Typewritten copy of Senior recital program to be submitted to the Director, for approval, at least three weeks prior to recital date.

Section 15Special Requirements for Graduation

- a. For majors in Pianoforte, Organ, Voice, Violin, Viola, Violoncello or Flute:
 1. Completion of prescribed repertoire.
 2. Recital to be given not later than the second Saturday in May.
 3. Performance of a solo work or equivalent with the Conservatory Orchestra.
- b. For majors in Ensemble-playing (Pianists or String players):
 1. Candidates must have attended Ensemble Classes during their Junior and Senior years, with concentration in advanced chamber music literature.
 2. Seniors will be required to participate in a recital program.
- c. For majors in Orchestral Training:
 1. During their Junior and Senior years, they may be required to take part in recitals of ensemble music.
- d. For majors in Composition, the candidate must submit to the Director on or before May 1, of the Senior year, the following manuscripts legibly written in ink:
 1. A motet in three or more parts to Latin words.
 2. A short choral work in four or more parts to English words.
 3. A two-part invention.
 4. A four-voice fugue for pianoforte, organ, wind or stringed instruments.
 5. A complete work for pianoforte alone or with other instruments, or for quartet or quintet of strings or wind, in three or more movements, showing a grasp of constructive principles in the more extended forms.
 6. A serious work for full orchestra, requiring not less than ten minutes for performance.
 7. Four works of smaller dimensions, for a variety of media, which are free in form but which demonstrate fine workmanship, and real constructive skill.
- e. For majors in Music Theory, the candidate must submit to the Director on or before May 1 of the senior year, the following manuscripts legibly written in ink:
 1. A motet in three or more parts to Latin words.
 2. A short choral work in four or more parts to English words.
 3. A two-part invention.
 4. A three or four-voice fugue for pianoforte or organ.
 5. A movement in sonata form for pianoforte alone, or with one other instrument, showing a grasp of the constructive principles of the Viennese classical sonata. (So-called contemporary styles are not acceptable in this category).

6. In addition to the work in composition, the candidate must pass a demonstrative examination, during the senior year, showing proficiency either in ensemble or orchestral conducting.
- f. For majors in Music Education:
 1. In addition to the completion of the Music Education course, the candidate must pass a demonstrative examination during the senior year showing a proficiency in applied music.
- g. It is advisable that all students working for instrumental or vocal credit toward a Degree make a phonograph recording twice a year. These are kept on file as long as the student is attending the Conservatory.

Courses leading to the degree

MASTER OF MUSIC

Section 16

Admission to this course will be granted to students who hold a Bachelor of Music degree from a college or music school of recognized standing, who satisfy the entrance requirements as stated herein, and who present evidence of capacity for successful advanced study.

Under ordinary circumstances the course leading to the Master's degree requires two years of intensive work at the Conservatory. All requirements for the degree must be met within five years of matriculation.

All graduate work required for this degree must be pursued in the Conservatory. Courses pursued in the Conservatory or elsewhere during the period of study leading to the Bachelor's degree, even though in addition to the requirements for that degree, will not be credited toward the Master's degree.

No subjects may be taken for credit toward the Master's degree until the candidate has been accepted by the Faculty Council.

ENTRANCE REQUIREMENTS

Application for admission should be submitted to the Dean not later than September 1 preceding the academic year during which the candidate desires to enter the course. Application will be made upon the form provided for that purpose by the Conservatory, and must be accompanied by an official transcript of the candidate's college record.

The course leading to the Bachelor's degree must have been equivalent to the course prescribed by this Conservatory for the Bachelor of Music degree in the proposed field of concentration as regards (a) the subjects pursued and their degree of advancement; (b) the approximate proportion of music subjects to academic work; and (c) the total number of semester hours.

Qualified students holding the Bachelor's degree in a field other than music, or those whose course record does not meet the requirements for the Conservatory Bachelor of Music degree, will be permitted to make up these deficiencies in the Conservatory before being admitted to the graduate course.

Students wishing to major in a field other than the one in which they were awarded a Bachelor of Music degree must meet the requirements of the Conservatory Bachelor of Music degree in the proposed field.

Students wishing to major in Composition must also present manuscripts written legibly in ink, demonstrating that they have completed the equivalent of the requirements for the Conservatory Bachelor of Music degree with concentration in Composition.

Students wishing to major in Composition or Theory may be required to take comprehensive examinations in harmony and counterpoint.

Students whose undergraduate record clearly indicates a superior ability in the field of Historical Research will be admitted to this course upon the approval of the Faculty Council.

ENTRANCE EXAMINATIONS

Comprehensive examinations in Theory may be required of candidates entering the Conservatory from other schools or colleges.

Graduate courses in academic subjects must be authorized by the Director and Department Supervisor.

All candidates in the major field of Applied Music will be examined by the Faculty Council.

Section 17

CURRICULUM

Students admitted to the graduate course may concentrate in Applied Music, Applied Music Pedagogy, Composition, Historical Research, Music Education, or Music Theory. In addition to their work in the major field, they will be required to pursue approved courses bearing a total credit of at least 16 units.*

* One unit equals one semester hour.

Note: Candidates should arrange for a conference with the Director prior to determining and entering their major field. Following this conference the candidate must develop a plan of study in consultation with the Department Supervisor.

A general plan of distribution will be as follows: one half of the entire program, or 16 units, will be in the major field; the remaining half should show an appropriate balance between two minor fields. Of the courses in the minor field, one may be an academic subject. Each student majoring in a field requiring a thesis will also carry a conference course in his major subject and a course in Bibliography and Research.

Each student majoring in a field requiring a thesis must, not later than October 15 of the academic year in which he intends to complete all requirements for the degree, submit for the approval of the Faculty Council the subject and an outline of his proposed thesis. The completed manuscript must be presented to the supervisor of academic studies by April 1 and the thesis in final form, typed and bound according to specifications, must be submitted to the Faculty Council not later than May 1 of the academic year in which the student is a candidate for graduation.

With the approval of the Faculty Council, each student will choose such subjects as are best suited to his field of concentration. Special courses in the following subjects, in advance of undergraduate requirements, are offered for graduate credit:

Composition (G)	Fine Arts (G)
Instrumentation (G)	Psychology (G)
Music Education (G)	English Seminar (G)
Italian (G), French (G), and German (G)
Ensemble (G)
Pedagogy of Music Theory Lectures (G)
Music 2 (G)

The following courses are also approved for graduate credit, provided that they have not been included in the candidate's course leading to the Bachelor's degree:

History of Music 2	Music Form
Contemporary Music	Choir Training
Counterpoint 3	Psychology for Teachers
Harmony 3	Sociology
Solfege 3	World Literature
Advanced Opera Class
Advanced Choral Conducting
Natural Science

Other courses of appropriate character may also be permitted at the discretion of the Faculty Council, but no elementary courses will be accepted for graduate credit.

An Applied Music minor, if of approved grade, may be chosen by students majoring in other fields as one of the three courses required in music subjects.

Composition or an Advanced Theory Course must be taken as one of the prescribed music subjects unless this requirement is satisfactorily met by examination or acceptable credit.

In order to obtain graduate credit, all courses pursued must be completed with a mark not lower than B.

The Master of Music degree will be conferred by the Conservatory upon students who are recommended by the Faculty Council after completion of the requirements in one of the following fields:

A. In Applied Music (Pianoforte, Organ, Voice, Violin, Viola, Violoncello, and Flute).

The student must fulfill requirements in repertoire considerably in advance of those prescribed for the Bachelor of Music degree. He must present a recital program containing major works, both classical and modern (typewritten copy of program to be submitted to the Director, for approval, at least three weeks prior to recital date), and he must perform a concerto, or its equivalent, with the Conservatory Orchestra. A final demonstrative examination will be given by the Faculty Council.

credit: 16 units

In addition to work in the major field, not less than four full courses will be required. Of these four courses, at least three must be in music subjects.

credit: 16 units

For students majoring in this field, a minimum of two years of intensive work at the Conservatory is usually required.

B. In Applied Music Pedagogy.

Candidates in the above applied music courses who desire to major in Pedagogy must have shown during the first year of study a superior aptitude in this field. Entrance to this course will be determined following the Faculty Council audition at the end of the first year. Requirements will be the same as those for an applied music major, but during the final year special emphasis will be placed upon teaching observation and teaching materials. A recital and performance with orchestra will not be required.

Total credit: 32 units

C. In Applied Music (Oboe, Clarinet, Bassoon, Horn, Trumpet, Trombone, and Harp).

The student must fulfill instrumental requirements considerably in advance of those prescribed for the Bachelor of Music degree. In addition to presenting an approved recital program, solo and ensemble, (typewritten copy of program to be submitted to the Director, for approval, at least three weeks prior to recital date), credit: 10 units, he must arrange a score of an approved work (classic or contemporary) for solo instrument and chamber orchestra to be performed as one of the numbers on the required recital.

credit: 6 units

In addition to work in the major field, not less than four full courses will be required. Of these four courses, at least three must be in music subjects. An advanced course in Instrumentation will be one of the required minors.

credit: 16 units

A final demonstrative examination will be given by the Faculty Council.

D. In Composition.

The student must present, not later than May 1 of the academic year in which he is a candidate for the degree, any one of the following original works which shall have been composed subsequent to his admission to the graduate course:

1. A serious work for orchestra.
2. A composition for chorus, with orchestral accompaniment.
3. A work of chamber music for two or more instruments, or for chamber orchestra.

In quality and workmanship these compositions must show evidence of distinct talent for composition, and of mature technical training. The composition submitted shall require not less than fifteen minutes for performance.

credit: 16 units

In addition to work in the major field, not less than four full courses will be required. Of these four courses, at least three must be in music subjects.

credit: 16 units

E. In Historical Research.

The student must present an acceptable thesis on an approved subject following the required course in Bibliography. This work will be undertaken in conjunction with a conference course under the Department Supervisor. The completed manuscript must be presented to the supervisor of academic studies by April 1. The thesis in final form, typed and bound according to specifications, must be submitted to the Faculty Council not later than May 1 of the academic year in which the student is a candidate for graduation. In scope and quality of scholarship, the thesis must conform to the standard appropriate to a Master's degree. A final conference with the Faculty Council will be required.

credit: 16 units

In addition to work in the major field, not less than four full courses will be required. Of these four courses, at least three must be in music subjects.

credit: 16 units

F. In Music Education.

The student will undertake a special project related to his own professional purpose. This project will be carried out in conjunction with a Music Education Seminar (or private work with the department supervisor) and a final conference with the Faculty Council will be required.

credit: 6 units

The remainder of the work in the major field may be chosen from among the following courses:

credit: 10 units

Problems of Music Education

- a. Supervision
- b. Administration
- c. Materials (Elementary and Secondary)
- d. Vocal problems

Instrumental problems

Psychology of Music Education

- a. Guidance
- b. Measurements

In addition to work in the major field, the supporting studies should be properly related to the program in the major field and may be appropriately distributed between two minor areas, Theory and Applied Music.

Theory courses recommended:

Counterpoint 2	4	} a total credit of 8 units from this list usually will be required.
Music Form	4
Contemporary Music	4
Composition	4
History of Music 2	4

Applied Music recommended:

Advanced work on major instrument	4 or 6	} a total credit of 8 units from this list will be required.
Reinforcement on second instrument	2
Ensemble or String Quartet	4

G. In Music Theory.

The student will be required to undertake a course in the Pedagogy of Music Theory, including a discussion of methods of teaching solfege, harmony, counterpoint, form, and instrumentation as regards texts, plan of work, and classroom technique. Opportunities for observation of teaching methods will be provided.

credit: 6 units

Private conference study of classical styles of composition also will be required and the student must demonstrate his ability to handle a variety of materials in the basic forms used in the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries.

credit: 10 units

In addition to work in the major field, the candidate will be required to continue his previous work in applied music, or further work with a supplementary instrument, or Ensemble,

credit: 8 units

and a selection from the following courses:

Counterpoint 3	Advanced French
Harmony 3	Advanced German
Contemporary Music	Advanced Italian
Instrumentation 2	Advanced Psychology

Fine Arts 2

credit: 8 units

A comprehensive examination, written or oral, or both, covering a wide range of musicianship will be given toward the close of the final period of study.

Fees for matriculation, special examinations, and for the degree are the same as those prescribed in the course leading to the Bachelor of Music degree.

The applicant must show sufficient promise of both vocal and musical development to insure meeting all requirements for graduation in the specified four-year course.

This course is designed to give the student a thorough understanding of the voice and its management; a mastery of breathing and breath-control through correct method of vocalization, which is an essential element of Italian music; an appreciation of representative vocal styles and the ability to perform in a musicianly manner an extensive repertory of Italian, French, English, and German vocal music, both sacred and secular.

Voice 1

The student will study the vocal instrument with attention to correct breathing (breath-control, coordinated management of the diaphragm and resonance chambers). He must give satisfactory evidence of the ability to apply to beautiful tone quality, the principles of correct vocalization through technical exercises, studies, and songs from the early classics.

Voice 2

The student must become proficient in such vocal techniques as the trill, messa di voce, mezza voce, portamento, staccato, appoggiatura, acciaccatura, and canto d'agilità, acquired through more advanced vocalizzi of the grade of Panofka 81, Lütgen, Concone 15 and 25, Aprile, Aighini, and such selections from the works by Bach, Mozart, Gluck, Rossini, Haydn and Handel as bring into play the foregoing technique. He must be able to demonstrate correctly the vocal style of each of the composers listed above, with attention to recitative. The candidate must show a considerable repertory of Italian arias and of Italian, French, and English songs before entrance to Grade 3.

Voice 3

The student must increase the foregoing repertory with songs of greater musical and technical requirements, must learn at least one suitable operatic role and prepare an appropriate part of an oratorio such as Handel's Messiah, Mendelssohn's Elijah, Bach's St. Matthew or St. John Passion, or Haydn's Creation.

Voice 4

While attention will still be focused on vocal method, the student will be required to pursue advanced interpretive study with duly qualified experts in the field of concerted vocal works comparable to Brahms Motets, Bach cantatas and operatic ensembles, as well as more extended concert repertory.

Orchestral Wind and Percussion Instruments

It is possible to study any orchestral instrument with a member of the faculty who is a present or past member of the Boston Symphony Orchestra. For each of these instruments a careful plan is made for serious and thorough technical study, necessary for the fulfillment of the exacting present-day requirements for soloists and orchestral players. Students will receive in the course of Orchestra Drill, Orchestra Reading, the Conservatory Orchestra, and the Orchestral Class the practical training necessary to fit them for membership in a symphony or opera orchestra of the first rank. They also have the added experience of playing in smaller ensemble combinations. Percussion players are given a thorough training in tympani and in each of the orchestral percussion instruments, including advanced study of vibracussion instruments, and are prepared to take any position in this group.

Section 18

Secondary Instrumental Requirements

- a. Voice majors. Diploma students must have the equivalent of two years of pianoforte study before graduation, and must be able to play simple accompaniments of songs with some fluency. Degree students must have the equivalent of three years of pianoforte study, and must be able to accompany songs of medium difficulty with fluency.
- b. Violin and other Orchestral Instrument majors must have the equivalent of two years of pianoforte study before graduation.
- c. Composition majors must have considerable proficiency on the pianoforte, and a working knowledge of at least two orchestral instruments, each chosen from a different group, i.e., Strings, Woodwind, Brass, Percussion.

Section 19

Music Education Majors

- a. Before entering the Freshman year, students should have an acquaintance with at least two instruments, one of them being pianoforte, constituting the equivalent of at least one year's study of each.

Note: If there is a deficiency in this requirement, it must be made up by extra instrumental study.

- b. Before graduation the student must have attained a competence in pianoforte necessary for his future work as a teacher (two years minimum may be required); a knowledge of the voice (at least one year may be required); and a fair ability on one orchestral instrument (one year may be required); all of this in addition to the work of the Instrumental Classes. The study of an instrument is pursued in private lessons, with a minimum requirement of one half-hour lesson per week throughout the four year course.

OPERA DEPARTMENT

Under the direction of BORIS GOLDOVSKY
SARAH CALDWELL, Assistant to Mr. Goldovsky

The aim of the Opera Department is two-fold: (a) to train singers for the operatic stage; (b) to prepare students for future operatic leadership through practical instruction in coaching of repertoire, conducting, stage direction, and all other phases of operatic production.

Training for Singers, Coaches and Conductors

1. Preparatory Class of Opera

Vocal students who are less advanced will study repertoire with emphasis on pantomimic representations of operatic scenes. Students of this class will have the privilege of attending sessions of the Advanced Class, as auditors.

2. Advanced Class of Opera

A practical course of training for the operatic stage: repertoire, dramatics, diction, etc. At regular intervals recitals of scenes from operas will be given. Members of the class will participate in occasional public performances of complete operas.

Coaching and Conducting

A thorough study of the standard operatic repertoire with emphasis on tempo determination as well as traditions and styles of performance, and problems of organization.

Stage Direction

A practical study of mise-en-scène, combined with work in scenic construction, lighting, costuming and make-up.

Members of the Coaching and Conducting and Stage Direction classes will be required to do independent, practical work with the singers and to offer assistance in the productions of the Opera Department.

Lecture Course

Mr. Goldovsky will offer a weekly lecture course on the history of operatic traditions. All students in the Opera Department will be required to attend this course, for which they will pay no additional fee. The course will also be offered to the general public, at a special fee.

Opera classes will be available to sufficiently advanced students, either diploma or special, after an audition with the department supervisor.

Graduate Course

A limited number of candidates will be accepted for graduate work in the field of Opera Direction. Pre-requisites for this course will be advanced pianoforte, advanced conducting, languages, and general aptitude in this field.

DEPARTMENT OF POPULAR MUSIC

WRIGHT BRIGGS, Supervisor

AVNER RAKOV, Orchestra Ensemble

The importance of the field of popular music in American life can not be minimized. Developments during the past few years have brought increasing artistic demands, in performance as well as in arranging and instrumentation. In keeping with its aim of providing the best possible instruction in each of the branches of music, the Conservatory has established a department of popular music, designed particularly to prepare students by direct, systematic methods for this profession.

Three three-year courses and the advanced certificate course are available in voice, instrumental performance, and in arranging, leading to a diploma.

Instruction is provided in various instruments, including trumpet, trombone, clarinet, saxophone, accordion, pianoforte and the percussion group. The particular problems of performance are taught by teachers of wide experience in this type of music.

Instrumental Performance

The student of instrumental performance is given the benefit of the classes in Ensemble, in which he is thoroughly prepared in sight-reading, transposition, perfection of balance and intonation, improvisation, and in the various styles of performance of the commercial orchestras of today. He is also prepared to double on other instruments, as required in many orchestras. The experience available in the Conservatory (symphony) Orchestra, and in the Orchestra

Reading Class prepares him to play all types of music and to adapt himself instantly to the demands of the various styles. Such wide experience can only be obtained through the advantages of a large conservatory.

Arranging

Those majoring in arranging are taught the many prerequisites of the profession which are not obvious to them unless they are working under the guidance of an expert arranger. The demand for skillful arranging in a great variety of styles is large, but few are able to qualify for these positions. The student has the opportunity to hear his arrangements performed by one of the ensemble groups, and the experience of actually conducting the rehearsals and working out the balance and effects for which he was aiming.

Voice

Students in the voice course are given instruction in the various styles of singing and performance with dance orchestra, as well as extensive training in dramatic technique.

For all students in this department there will be instruction in the problems of proper microphone use, for which the finely equipped phonograph recording studio of the Conservatory offers complete facilities.

Record books in which the complete applied music repertoire must be posted are required of all students. This book, signed by the teacher in the major subject, must be presented at each promotional examination.

DESCRIPTION OF SUBJECTS

Dramatic Technique (Radio) 1 and 2

Radio and television acting and singing techniques. Problems of the professional singer in these mediums. Writing and interpreting scripts.

Mr. Dorey

2 hours weekly

Elementary Arranging

A systematic study of instrumentation leading to a practical understanding of the problems of the professional arranger. Varied types and styles of orchestration are taken up, and the student is given a working knowledge of the fundamentals of writing for the dance orchestra.

Mr. Briggs

2 hours weekly

Elementary Theory

This course supplements the traditional study of solfege and harmony by correlating the academic approach with the various conditioning factors which occur in current commercial practice; these include simple harmonic analysis, melody and obligato writing, rhythmic formulas of frequent occurrence in popular music, structural analysis of popular songs, etc.

Mr. Briggs

1 hour weekly

History and Styles of Popular Music

- a. The first semester will deal with famous and influential groups and personalities prominent in popular music from the turn of the century until the present. This includes performers, composers, and arrangers as well as orchestral groups and will be illustrated by recordings.
- b. The second semester will deal chiefly with the practical problems encountered by the young musician in the various fields of commercial music, such as dance-band playing, theater work, radio staff work, recording, composing, publishing, television, etc.

Mr. Briggs

2 hours weekly

Orchestra 1 (Popular)

A training-ground for the elementary student of moderate technical skill who lacks playing experience. Careful coaching and attention to detail will aid in developing a sure sense of intonation, clearcut phrasing, and feeling for ensemble. The conventional dance-band instrumentation will serve as the basis of this group.

Mr. Briggs

4 hours weekly

Orchestra 2 (Popular)

A dance-band group requiring a more advanced degree of proficiency and musicianship. Instrumentation will be similar to Orchestra 1, but standards will be more exacting and material used will be more varied. Precision will be stressed but improvisation ability will be welcomed and put to good use. Strings and woodwinds will be used frequently in this group to enlarge the horizons of both performers and arrangers.

Mr. Briggs

4 hours weekly

The orchestra groups will serve as frequent laboratories for arranging majors and vocal majors who will benefit from this practical experience under professional conditions.

Popular Choral Writing

The technique of writing in present day styles for groups of varying sizes which are currently in vogue with dance bands, on radio programs and in musical comedy.

Mr. Briggs

1 hour weekly

Vocal Ensemble 1 (Popular)

A choral group designed to acquaint the student with the fundamental principles of choral singing. Although traditional technique will be stressed, the material used will be drawn from contemporary radio and theater literature. This group will also serve as an occasional laboratory for arranging majors.

Mr. Hicks

1 hour weekly

Vocal Ensemble 2 (Popular)

This course will stress trio, quartet, and quintet singing in the close harmony rhythmic style prevalent in radio and dance bands of today. Students other than vocal majors are welcome to elect this course. Reading ability is a higher pre-requisite than vocal development.

Mr. Hicks

2 hours weekly

GENERAL INFORMATION

Section 20

Marking System

- a. Marks, which are permanently recorded in the office of the Dean, are given a student for each subject at the end of every semester on the basis of:

1. Regular class work
2. Grade of examination
3. Attendance. Regularity of attendance at all classes is required. The work of students who do not attend classes regularly will suffer, and this will affect the mark of the semester. Students who are delinquent in attendance will be summoned before the Dean.

A signifies superior ability and achievement.

B shows excellent work. Students obtaining an average of B or above are entitled to a place on the Dean's list.

C denotes satisfactory work and progress.

D is a low passing mark and carries a warning.

75% of all grades received by a student in a Diploma or Bachelor of Music Degree Course (figured on the basis of the number of semester hours of credit given) must be C or above in each of the following three divisions of his work, otherwise he will not be allowed to graduate:—

1. Supplementary musical subjects and secondary instrumental study.
2. Supplementary academic subjects and professional subjects in the Music Education Department.
3. The work of the major field.

E denotes a failure and means that the work of that semester must be repeated. Not until this has been done will a student be allowed to begin the next semester's work in the same subject. Two E's in any semester constitute a failure for the full course. The student will not be allowed to continue the full course and the Conservatory reserves the right to withdraw the student's registration.

- b. Special examinations will be given to students who fail to come to the regular examination because of illness for which the student can give certified evidence. The work will be marked "incomplete", but this will be made an automatic E at the end of the third week of the following semester if the examination has not yet been taken. A mark of "incomplete" may also be given at the discretion of the teacher if the student has failed to hand in required assignments. This mark will again automatically change to E if the work is not made up before the end of the sixth week of the following semester.

- c. Reports of a student's standing will be sent to parents upon request made to the Dean. Parents will be notified of cases of delinquency in attendance.

Section 21

Honors

Honors are awarded at Commencement to candidates for the Conservatory diploma and the Bachelor of Music degree whose scholastic average throughout the course indicates superior work. The honors are divided as follows:

Highest Honors	9.5 to 10	inclusive
Honors with Distinction	9.0 to 9.49	inclusive
Honors	8.0 to 8.99	inclusive

Section 22

NEW ENGLAND CONSERVATORY OF MUSIC

GENERAL REGULATIONS

All students of the Conservatory are required to conform to the student regulations, and are held responsible for a full knowledge of the rules and regulations contained in the general catalogue.

Students coming to the Conservatory from other institutions must be able to furnish a certificate of honorable dismissal.

Applications for admission to the Conservatory must be accompanied by a recent photograph, not smaller than two inches by three inches (2"x3").

Students are required to carry the student identification card at all times. This card must bear the student's own signature in ink.

The Conservatory reserves the right at any time to refuse or withdraw temporarily or permanently the registration of any student whose presence may appear to be detrimental to its interest, without being required to give specific reasons for such action; also, to refuse to renew the registration of students who have been habitually delinquent in their studies.

All matters of business connected with the Conservatory must be transacted at the business offices, except in cases of make-up lessons. Included under this ruling are matters pertaining to tuition and all other fees, private lessons, assignments of classes, change in hours, and excuses for absences.

During their period of study, students will be allowed to arrange for public appearances only with the consent of the Director or Dean.

Students may register for single subjects if desired.

Changes cannot be made from one class to another. Courses discontinued without the approval of the Dean will be recorded as failures. Changes from one teacher to another in the major field cannot be made without the written consent of the Director.

No subject may be discontinued after the end of the second week in any semester.

Students wishing to organize any social activity must first get approval for the type of entertainment from the Dean and then submit a budget of expenses for approval of the Assistant Treasurer before permission will be given to use the hall.

Student required recitals take precedence over all other student activities in the halls. No conflict of student social activities or recitals will be permitted.

All recital programs by student organizations must be submitted to the Director for approval at least three weeks in advance of recital date.

The Conservatory has approved an official class ring bearing the Conservatory seal. This design is not subject to change and is available to graduates only on approval of the Dean. Class rings may be purchased only by full course students (i.e., candidates for the diploma or degree). Diploma students may place their orders for rings in the Fall of the Senior year; degree students, in the Spring of the Junior year.

Financial

Each applicant will be notified in writing of his acceptance as a candidate at the Conservatory. The candidate's acceptance of this appointment must be accompanied by a check or money order for fifty dollars ($50.00). This amount will be applied toward his tuition.

Fees, to be paid in advance, include registration fee, student activity fee, book deposit, dormitory fees (women), tuition fees, practice room fees, and instrument rental fees. Partial payments in advance must be approved by the Assistant Treasurer.

A book deposit of twenty-five dollars ($25.00) is required of all students taking academic subjects for credit. This deposit is held for the purchase of textbooks at the bookstore. A deposit of five dollars ($5.00) will be required of all special students toward the purchase of music or books at the bookstore. The unexpended balances will be returned at the end of the academic year on application by the student for a refund.

A student activity fee of seven dollars and fifty cents ($7.50) per academic year is charged to all students who have been accepted into the degree or diploma course or who are taking at least twelve semester hours. The purpose of this fee is to provide adequate funds for class and student activities during the year. Cards will be issued to each student entitling him to admission to all students' social activities without further charge, except where refreshments are served.

No refunds or allowances will be made for late entrances or lost lessons. Refunds will not be made for withdrawals or classes discontinued after the second week of the academic year. Where instruction has been discontinued for non-payment of tuition, reinstatement may be made only by payment of all fees due and lessons missed during this interval will be forfeited.

Students may place money deposit with the Cashier's office and can draw on same at any time during business hours. No charge is made for this service.

Students entering classes late in the semester will be charged for the full semester and must take the necessary number of private lessons to make up the lost work.

The Conservatory reserves the right to discontinue any class which does not reach or maintain a required minimum in enrollment. The Conservatory will arrange to provide equivalent instruction in the same or in some other required subject at no extra cost to a full course student, provided the class discontinued is a required subject in his course. Special students may continue in private lessons or take the class another year if it is given.

The Conservatory reserves the right to make any changes in curriculum, tuition fees, room rates or any other fee it deems necessary.

Attendance

Attendance at the last class before and the first class following holidays will be required.

Prompt attendance is required at classes and private lessons.

Students may be excused from private lessons and classes on account of illness or for a professional engagement by notifying the Registrar a reasonable time before the hour of the lesson or class. Excuses after lessons or class hour will not be accepted and will be considered a cut.

Lessons lost by unexcused absences will not be made up.

Students may not have more than two unexcused cuts per semester in any one course.

Building Rules

The use or possession of intoxicating liquors anywhere in the Conservatory buildings is prohibited.

Loud conversation, noise, laughter or singing in the corridors is forbidden.

Practice in studios without permission is forbidden. Permission may be obtained from the Registrar. Piano practice in the concert halls will be permitted only as immediate preparation for a required public recital. Permission may be obtained from the Assistant Treasurer.

Practice rooms may not be occupied by more than two students at a time unless specific permission is secured from the Registrar.

Smoking is forbidden anywhere in the building except in rooms set aside for this purpose.

Food cannot be served in any fraternity or sorority rooms without permission of the Assistant Treasurer. This permission will be granted with the understanding that no charge is to be made.

Students will be held responsible for a full knowledge of the contents of all official notices placed on the school bulletin boards.

Section 23

Registration

Registration for new students for the academic year opens annually on the Tuesday after Labor Day, but may be arranged at any time prior thereto. All other students must register before Commencement for the next academic year. While the year is divided into two semesters, students may register at the beginning of the academic year for the entire year, no registration being necessary for the second semester except for course changes, etc.

Special students may register for private lessons at any time during the year.

Evening lessons are arranged for the benefit of those who cannot take advantage of courses during the day.

Section 24

Tuition and Fees

- a. The tuition fee for a Preliminary Course, including all required subjects (except private lessons in the major field and supplementary instrument) is $400. per year. Students are required to take a minimum of one hour lesson per week in the major instrument or study.
- b. The tuition fee for a Diploma Course, including all required subjects (except private lessons in the major field and supplementary instrument) is $400. per year. Students are required to take a minimum of one hour lesson per week in the major instrument or study.

The tuition fee for a Diploma Course in the Department of Popular Music, including all required subjects (except private lessons in the major field and supplementary instrument) is $400. per year.

- c. The tuition fee for the course leading to the Bachelor of Music degree (Pianoforte, Organ, Church Music, Voice, Orchestral Instruments, Composition, and Music Theory) including all required subjects (except private lessons in the major field and supplementary instrument) is $450. per year. Students are required to take one hour lesson per week in the major instrument or study.
- d. The tuition fee for the course leading to the Bachelor of Music degree (Music Education), including all required subjects (except private lessons in voice or instrument) is $500. per year.

Students may limit themselves to one half-hour per week during each year in their voice or instrument study, provided that there are no deficiencies to make up.

- e. The fee for phonograph recordings is $4.00 per 10" record.
- f. Registration fee per academic year, $4.00, and for Summer School, $4.00.
- g. The fee for each examination for advanced standing is $4.00.
- h. The fee for a special examination is $4.00.
- i. Students presenting a thesis as a requirement for graduation must provide two copies, typed and bound, the cost not to exceed $100.
- j. The fee for the Diploma in any course or for the Degree is $15.00, payable on or before June 1 of the final year.
- k. The fee for each transcript of student's record (after the first one) is $1.50. There is no charge for the first copy.
- l. Students taking fewer subjects than the prescribed curriculum, as designated in the catalogue, or those taking courses in addition thereto, will be charged at the rate of $25.00 per semester hour.
- m. The fee for supplementary academic and theoretical courses of study is standardized at $25.00 per semester hour of credit.
- n. The charges for the following subjects are indicated below:

Section 25RENTAL OF MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS

All musical instruments which are the property of the New England Conservatory of Music must be signed for on the regular Rental Agreements and under the following rules:

1. Rental charged, if any, must be paid in advance.
2. Moving cost to be paid by the lessee.
3. Maintenance of instrument shall be the responsibility of the lessee. This includes replacement of strings, bow hair, reeds, etc.
4. In case of damage to said instrument by misuse or any cause whatsoever, except ordinary wear from careful use, the lessee agrees to pay the total amount of such damage, based upon the valuation at time of rental. In addition to the rental charge, the lessee agrees to reimburse the Conservatory for the cost of insurance of the instrument against fire, theft, etc., during the term of the rental.

5. In case of failure to comply with any of the terms of the Rental Agreement, the Conservatory may, without notice or demand, take possession of the said instrument without liability for trespass in doing so.

PLACEMENT BUREAU

The Conservatory Placement Bureau has been in successful operation for many years. It is an ideal means of communication between the employer and the student who is a worthy candidate for a position. The Conservatory's recommendations are based on personal knowledge of the student's achievement and conduct during the period of study, substantiated by carefully kept records from each of his teachers. It is the aim of the Bureau to discover the proper person to fill the position to the employer's satisfaction, and likewise to find the position for the student which will give him opportunity to realize his best potentialities. The large number of graduates and former students who are now occupying important positions in widely varying fields in the musical world testifies to the success of the Placement Bureau in carrying out these aims.

With the approval of the Director, the Bureau may also obtain remunerative engagements in church and concert work for well qualified undergraduates.

LIVING ACCOMMODATIONS

The Conservatory maintains attractive accommodations for women students in the N.E.C. House, located within a five minute walk of the Conservatory. Recently completely renovated and redecorated, with improved appointments, it is under the direction of a supervisor and her assistant, with the usual regulations that apply to college dormitories. Large recreation rooms in the basement make an ideal social center under careful supervision. Ample reception rooms are provided on the first floor. All women students who are not living at home are required to live at the N.E.C. House. All requests for detailed information and application for accommodations should be addressed to the Supervisor of Student Housing, New England Conservatory of Music, 290 Huntington Avenue, Boston 15, Mass. Rooms will be shown by appointment during the summer.

ROOM FEES

Single Rooms—$335.00 and $390.00 per academic year.

Double Rooms—$225.00, $280.00, $335.00, and $390.00 per academic year.

All rooms MUST BE HELD for the full academic year and paid for on that basis.

NEW ENGLAND CONSERVATORY HOUSE WOMEN STUDENTS RESIDENCE

The Conservatory reserves the right at any time to refuse the privilege of living in the Conservatory House, and also to withdraw this privilege, temporarily or permanently, if the presence of the student appears detrimental to the best interests of the Conservatory, without being required to give specific reasons for such action.

Room fees are payable in advance, one half September 1 and one half January 25 of the academic year. No refunds will be made owing to withdrawals. All applications for rooms must be accompanied by a deposit of one quarter of the yearly fee for the room applied for, but not less than Fifty Dollars ($50.00). Balance of the first half of room fee must be paid before room is occupied.

All students living at the Dormitory are required to pay a House Committee fee of $2.00 per year, payable when making the room deposit.

All rooms must be retained for the school year, or in case of late entrance for the balance of the year and paid for on that basis.

Doctor's certificate of good health must be sent in with application for room accommodations.

All baggage and trunks should be shipped directly to the Conservatory House, 129 Hemenway Street, Boston 15, Massachusetts, after acceptance of application has been received.

HOUSE RULES

The following rules are made in the interest of all residents of the Conservatory House. Any student breaking a rule will be placed on social probation, and may upon further infractions, forfeit the privilege of living at the House.

Practice

String and woodwind players, resident in the Conservatory House, may practice in their rooms daily except Sundays between the hours of 10 A. M. and 7 P. M.

Entertaining

Entertaining male friends in students' rooms is not permitted. Male friends will be permitted to enter the dormitories only after 6 P. M. and all entertaining must be done in the reception rooms or recreation rooms, which are always under proper supervision. All visitors must be properly introduced to the supervisor or her assistant. All guests must be out of the building by 10:30 P. M. Overnight guests are not allowed.

Late Leave

All students residing in the Conservatory House are required to sign the register if leaving the house after 5 P. M. and must sign in on returning. Students must enter exact time on the register when leaving and returning. First year students must be in the house not later than 10:30 P. M., all others by 11 P. M. Any student who wishes to return after 11 P. M. must receive special permission from the Dean in advance. A limited number of these passes will be given during the school year, but none will be allowed to students on social or scholastic probation. No student will be allowed to leave the House after 10 P. M. One 1 A. M. permission per week will be allowed each student in good standing. These late permissions must be taken on Friday or Saturday evenings. The Dean's office will be supplied with a list each week showing the time of each student's return to the House in the evening.

Week-ends

Students wishing to be absent from the House for the week-end must take the matter up with the Dean, or in his absence, the supervisor, before making final arrangements, and must have a written permission from their parents.

Illness

A registered nurse is on duty at the Conservatory House daily. Any case of illness must be reported to her immediately so that the student may be properly cared for and the registrar be notified of any necessary absences.

In case medical attention is required, students living at the Conservatory House must be attended by the school physician.

Room Care

Each student is responsible for the cleanliness and neatness of her room. Each student is required to make her own bed before leaving her room in the morning. Once each week maids will clean each room and change all linen.

Students will be held responsible for all damage to rooms, loss, damage or destruction of equipment as supplied to her. Linen will be considered destroyed if used for shoe cleaning cloths, for the removal of lipstick or other cosmetics, or for dust cloths. Linen so destroyed by the student will have to be paid for immediately by her. Pictures, banners, etc., must not be attached to the walls or woodwork without first receiving permission from the house supervisor and then attached only with thumb tacks or Moore push pins; NEVER WITH AN ADHESIVE MATERIAL. Students breaking this rule may be required to defray the expense of redecoration.

Students must not store food in rooms. Leftovers should be disposed of immediately in the proper receptacles in the basement. Cooking in bedrooms is forbidden. Tonic bottles must be removed not later than the next morning and if found by the maids the bottles will be disposed of by them. Window ledges must not be used for storage space.

The use or possession of intoxicating liquors anywhere in the New England Conservatory House is prohibited.

All lights in student rooms must be out by 11:30 P. M.

Appliances and Equipment

Radios must always be kept tuned low and doors must be shut when radios are in operation. Radios must be switched off at 10:30 P. M. All unnecessary noise, either inside or outside the building, must stop after this hour. Radios, curling irons, and desk lamps are the only electrical appliances permitted in the rooms, all other appliances are forbidden.

Each student must supply herself with a desk lamp and wastebasket. It is advisable to secure a small rug for the front of her bed. Ceiling lights in the rooms are equipped with 60 Watt bulbs. Floor, table or desk lamp must not have over 40 Watt lamps. Students are forbidden to add any temporary wiring to the electric light circuits or increase the size of the bulbs in the electric light fixtures.

Laundry

Washing and ironing of clothes must not be done in the rooms—space is provided in the basement for washing, drying, and ironing of clothes.

Telephone Calls

Telephone calls may not be made after 11 P. M. except in cases of emergency, and then only with the permission of the supervisor. Incoming telephone calls will not be received or delivered to the students after 11 P. M. except in cases of emergency. Parents and friends should be acquainted with these rules.

Valuables

Bedroom doors must be kept locked at all times when students are absent from their rooms. Students should deposit all money in the Cashier's Office in the school building. The New England Conservatory of Music will not be responsible for loss of money or other valuables kept by students in their rooms.

THE CONSERVATORY MUSIC STORE

Facilities for the sale of sheet music, books, and other musical merchandise, are located on the first floor of the Conservatory building. In addition to all Conservatory publications, a selected assortment of the best instrumental and vocal music is kept constantly on hand. The business of the Music Store is not limited to students, but is open to the public, and orders by mail are promptly executed. Those who desire to obtain the most approved standard compositions for pianoforte, organ, voice, works on theoretical musical subjects, etc., will find it to their interest to send their orders to the Music Store. All text-books and works of reference used in Conservatory courses or recommended in this catalogue may be obtained through the Music Store. Appointments for the making of recordings may be made here. Address all orders to the New England Conservatory Music Store, Huntington Avenue, Boston 15, Massachusetts.

SUMMER SESSION

The Summer Session offers students opportunity to pursue intensive work in applied music and music theory, as well as academic subjects, throughout a period of six weeks, beginning during the last week of June, and ending early in August. It is possible during this period to earn credit for a semester's private work in three or four subjects, a total of six semester hours of credit being the maximum allowable during one session. Credit for work thus accomplished is permanently recorded and is available for transfer to other institutions. It will be accepted toward requirements for the Diploma or Degree courses at the Conservatory, provided the student has fulfilled the entrance requirements or has already been admitted to the course.

In addition to the instruction which is offered in all branches of applied music, it is possible to carry on work in music theory subjects as well, including counterpoint, harmony, theory, music form, instrumentation and composition, and other subjects offered in the Music Education course. While the academic courses offered may vary from year to year, these usually include English composition and literature, psychology, fine arts, languages, European and American history, bibliography and research. Other musical and academic subjects may be added if the demand warrants. Instruction is given by members of the Conservatory faculty and others. All facilities of the Conservatory building, including the use of practice organs and the Library, are available. Details regarding enrollment, registration, tuition rates and special announcements will be sent upon request directed to

The New England Conservatory of Music Summer School
Huntington Avenue Boston 15, Massachusetts

OTHER SUMMER INSTRUCTION

In addition to the work of the Summer Session, special students in pianoforte, voice, violin or other instruments, or in supplementary musical or academic subjects, may register for private lessons during the whole or any part of the period between the close of the academic year in June and the opening of the succeeding academic year in September. Further information will be given upon application.
